Meet The NextGen@ICANN 53 Buenos Aires Members

in f 🐦 🦶 ✉ +

ICANN's Development and Public Responsibility Department (DPRD) is pleased to announce the newest group of admitted members to the popular NextGen@ICANN program. Started less than a year ago, this program has grown and become one of the most exciting opportunities for members of the next generation of Internet users to get involved with ICANN and the global Internet community.

The NextGen@ICANN program saw more than 200 applications in a period of less than 10 days. Of those 200, the NextGen Selection Committee chose 17 applicants to invite to the program.

About The NextGen@ICANN Program

As part of the Development and Public Responsibility Department's (DPRD) ongoing work to support the next generation of Internet users, the NextGen@ICANN program has been formalized as a staple DPRD initiative to engage regionally based undergraduate and graduate students at ICANN meetings, and introduce them to ICANN through guided programming. The NextGen@ICANN program was initially organized at ICANN 49 in Singapore with DotAsia and NetMission, and has been successfully replicated at both ICANN 50 in London and ICANN 51 in Los Angeles by our Department.

The application for the NextGen@ICANN program at ICANN 54 in Dublin, Ireland is currently available at http://bit.ly/nextgenicann. More information about the program and application, as well as requirements is available on that application link.
